An aerial photograph of a golf course. In the foreground, there's a large, well-manicured green with a sand trap on the left. A winding path or stream cuts through the middle of the course. To the right, a large, two-story clubhouse with a dark roof and white columns is visible. In the background, there's a large body of water, possibly a lake or a wide river, and a line of trees. The sky is clear and blue.
